

Factual Media Leader CuriosityStream Announces Major Global Expansion

(Silver Spring, Md.) — CuriosityStream, the global factual media company from the founder of Discovery Channel, is significantly expanding its international reach with major distribution partnerships in Africa, New Zealand and the Bahamas. Partner launches in several other countries are expected in the coming weeks. The new distribution agreements announced today with MultiChoice, Sky TV NZ and Cable Bahamas will increase CuriosityStream’s worldwide footprint of subscribers substantially as the company builds on recent partner launches in key markets including Latin America on Mexico’s Totalplay.

“Our founder John Hendricks created CuriosityStream with the goal of providing the best in original factual entertainment tailored to the needs, expectations and tastes of media consumers around the world. We are keenly focused on collaborating with partners who can help to deliver on that promise for their viewers whenever and wherever they want it,” said Clint Stinchcomb, President and CEO of CuriosityStream.

- MultiChoice launches CuriosityStream on its DStv platform providing millions of viewers across Africa with the definitive source for shows covering the full spectrum of the factual genre – from history and nature to science and technology to society and lifestyle.
Available on DStv channel #185 beginning November 21, 2019.
- Sky TV NZ launches CuriosityStream on its dedicated streaming platform Neon, and on the on-demand service on Sky TV, bringing the award-winning factual programming to Kiwis for the first time as the exclusive distribution partner in New Zealand.
Available on Neon and Sky On Demand beginning December 1, 2019.
- Cable Bahamas debuted CuriosityStream to its REV TV viewers on November 11, 2019. The service is also available on the REVGO Play platform for viewers on the go.
Available now on channel #260.
